It was a fairly quiet week at the Capitol as legislators began laboring through budget priorities in reaction to the Supreme Court’s recent Gannon decision regarding K-12 funding. Having said that, it was a good week for ACEC of Kansas.

SB 54, amending the statutes governing the Board of Technical Professions, had a hearing in the House Federal and State Affairs Committee Tuesday. ACEC of Kansas testified in support, as did all other disciplines impacted by the bill. The Committee then took action on the bill Thursday. An amendment was offered and passed which removed a proposed piece of civil liability protection for those reporting allegations of misconduct to the Board of Technical Professions. The fear was that it would allow completely unfounded allegations to be made without consequence. Having adopted that amendment, the bill was passed out with a favorable recommendation. It will now head to the floor of the House for a vote.

Sub for HB 2246, which would provide liability protection for firms doing peer review work, had a hearing Wednesday in the Senate Commerce Committee. ACEC of Kansas testified in support. We were the only conferee to give verbal testimony in support of the bill. There were many questions from the Committee, but the overall hearing seemed very positive and we are optimistic about the future of the bill. The Committee is scheduled to debate and vote on the bill Tuesday of next week.

It is getting very late in the Session for new legislation, but we saw a significant bill introduced just this week. SB 433 would repeal parts of the state’s renewable energy requirements. It has long been anticipated this bill would come, but not this late in the Session. A hearing is scheduled in the Senate Utilities Committee next Wednesday. It remains to be seen if there is time enough for this legislation to have legs.

Next week will likely be the last full week of committee activity before they take their last round of bills to a vote in each chamber. Stay tuned....
