Gina Murphy earned a Bachelor of Arts in Architectural Studies in 2005 and a Master of Urban Planning in 2007 both from the University of Kansas. She joined CDM Smith in 2006 serving as a Transportation Planner in their Kansas City office. She has nine years of experience preparing planning and NEPA documents for a wide variety of projects, including Environmental Impact Statements, Environmental Assessments, Long-Range Transportation Plans, Freight Plans, and Corridor Studies. Her focus has been on the human environment specializing in socioeconomics, environmental justice, land use, and Section 4(f) and 6(f) evaluation. She also specializes in providing public involvement support for both planning and engineering projects. Projects she has worked on include the Kickapoo Tribal Comprehensive Plan, the WAMPO Metropolitan Transportation Plan 2035, and the US 40 and K-10 Corridor Study.

When away from the office she enjoys spending time with her husband, of five years in November, Kenneth and their two dogs, Felix and Wilt. She enjoys being outside, but only if it is at least 70 degrees. Her hobbies include running 5K races, reading, listening to music, and watching KU Basketball games (Rock Chalk Jayhawk). But much of her free time lately is spent working on projects around their newly purchased home.
