Ian graduated from KSU in 1997 with a Civil Engineering degree and began working at Finney & Turnipseed in Topeka. He spent the next eight years inspecting and designing bridges and related transportation projects. Since 2005, Ian has been a member of the Schwab Eaton team in Manhattan, focusing on Transportation Infrastructure design and Land Development. Ian has transitioned into the role of Project Manager at SE and he now works with both private and public clients on road and development projects throughout Kansas. Ian is a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers, the Institute of Transportation Engineers and the American Council of Engineering Companies.

Ian has been married for 15 years to Marcella, a lover of horses. He has an 11-year old daughter and two step-daughters in college. An average weekend will find Ian working on various projects on their 10 acres, from fencing to cutting wood. He has a Dr. Pepper habit that he is trying to break (sort of) and occasionally gets away to shoot pistols competitively in IDPA matches. Ian was cursed by his parents with the long vowel sound of the letter “I” in his first name so, inevitably, he will correct people by saying “Actually, its ‘eye-an’.” He enjoys reading science fiction, and is in the middle of restoring his father’s 1950 Ford pickup.
