Kip Strauss is Manager of the Transportation Planning Department in HNTB's Kansas City Metro office. He has extensive experience working on and managing transportation planning and traffic engineering projects, including multimodal transportation studies, highway and arterial corridor studies, environmental studies, traffic impact evaluations, travel demand modeling studies, and transportation master plans. Kip was business operations manager for the Kansas City metropolitan office from 2012 – 2014. Kip has been with HNTB 21 years and 3 years with other firms. Kip has a MBA from Rockhurst University, 2007, a Master of Science, Transportation Engineering, Georgia Institute of Technology, 1993, a Master of City Planning, Georgia Institute of Technology, 1993, and a BA, Liberal Arts, University of Kansas, 1989. Kip is a member of the American Institute of Certified Planners and Envision™ Sustainability Professional.

Kip Strauss has been married to Emily for 20 years and has two teenage daughters (18 and 15 years old). Sydney, the oldest, is off to the University of Kansas to get her degree in elementary education to be a teacher. Lily, a sophomore at Blue Valley North High School, finished 8th in the State last year in Cross Country and Track. My hobbies are to spend time with family, watch some sports, exercise and enjoy life every day. I grew up in Kansas City and have lived here my entire life except for three years in Atlanta and two years in Pasadena, CA for my first job out of school.
